I'm Sikandar Hassan — a self-taught front-end web developer who sees beauty in every design and meaning in every detail. For me, development is not just about code — it's about passion. I put both my heart and mind into every project I work on.

I'm someone who loves exploring new ideas and sees every challenge as a new opportunity. I thrive when working independently, yet I fully understand the power of teamwork.

I'm not someone who just finishes tasks — I strive to perfect them.
Learning is my habit, and creativity is my identity.
